I like that we have the possibility to choose different lessons for the morning and afternoon. In the afternoon I did a business class. I can recommend it for everyone because our teacher Andy is a fantastic teacher. We did a lot of practice which is based on the real business life and we could learn how we can negotiate well and what kind of language we have to use when we are speaking with our business partners.

The English and mainly the Art lessons prepared me a lot for this year (Foundation). I've always liked to draw and to be involved with art. I had some classes at school but it was very basic. The course prepared me a lot because it gave me a different vision – a completely different way to look at art. English was great too, the teachers are fantastic, and I was staying with a host family so I had to speak English all the time – it helped me a lot.

The teaching at Kings was really effective. It really prepared me to do TOEFL, I didn't have any surprise when I did the test because it was really what I saw in class.

There were lots of exercises where you had to work in a group of 2 or 3 people and it was always good.

At many locations there is a regular programme of free lectures after lessons which cover many topics of general academic, linguistic or cultural interest.

Academic enrichment excursions

Depending on your course you might have the opportunity to visit outside organisations to help your learning come alive. Venues include local businesses, law courts, exhibitions, galleries and universities.

Typical clubs and societies

There are a broad range of clubs and societies available for you to join. These vary by location but typical examples include: Astronomy, Badminton, Basketball, Board games, Chess, Debating society, Film, Football, Guitar, Martial arts, Paper crafts, Performing arts, Photography, Science in the News, Singing/Choir, Textiles, Yoga/Pilates, and many others.

Kings Social Responsibility

At Kings, teaching and learning is at our core. For us, though, it doesn't just take place in the classroom. Instead, we view teaching and learning as a broad and constant process which enables us all to become better citizens – locally and globally.

We aim to make a difference across three main areas within Kings Social Responsibility – Sustainability, Community and Education.
